MESSAGE FROM THE CABINET SECRETARY AND ASSISTANT SECRETARY

The State-Tribal Collaboration Act (STCA) establishes a clear responsibility for state agencies to maintain effective government-to-government relationships with the Nations, Pueblos, and Tribes (NPTs) of New Mexico. For the Early Childhood Education and Care Department (ECECD), this included consistent consultation, ongoing communication, effective collaboration, and strong accountability across the programs, policies, funding decisions, and initiatives that impact Native children, families, and communities.

In Fiscal Year 2026, ECECD continued to strengthen its engagement with NPTs through 18 consultations, facilitated monthly communication forums, regular meetings of the New Mexico Early Childhood Tribal Advisory Coalition, and direct engagement with Tribal leadership and early childhood programs. ECECD also made significant investments across child care assistance, Tribal PreK, home visiting, capital outlay, and Tribal Investment Strategy. Approximately $36.16 million was allocated to programs, services, infrastructure, and priorities benefiting Native children, families, and Tribal communities.

As ECECD moves into Fiscal Year 2027, the Department remains committed to fulfilling its responsibilities under the State-Tribal Collaboration Act and strengthening government-to-government collaboration across New Mexico's early childhood system. This work requires continued engagement, transparency, responsiveness, and accountability from the Department as we work with NPTs to address current priorities and advance opportunities for Native children and their families.

This report documents the Department's progress and activities under STCA and reflects ongoing work to strengthen communications and collaboration. We appreciate the continued engagement of Tribal leaders, early childhood professionals, educators, families, and partners who contribute to this work and help inform and improve ECECD's efforts throughout the state.

COMMUNICATION AND COLLABORATION

The Office of the Assistant Secretary for Native American Early Education and Care (OAS) is committed to maintaining meaningful, transparent, and consistent communication with the Nations, Pueblos, and Tribes (NPTs) of New Mexico. Recognizing that strong government-to-government relationships are built through ongoing dialogue. OAS coordinates multiple communication forums throughout the year to share information, elevate Tribal priorities, foster collaboration, and strengthen partnerships across early childhood systems.

These communication efforts provide opportunities for Tribal leadership, early childhood professionals, educators, and agency partners to receive timely updates on ECECD initiatives, discuss emerging issues, exchange promising practices, and inform the development of policies and programs that impact Native children, families, and communities.

Throughout Fiscal Year 2026, the Office of the Assistant Secretary coordinated and supported the following recurring communication opportunities:

NEW MEXICO EARLY CHILDHOOD TRIBAL ADVISORY COALITION

Strengthening Tribal Leadership Through Collaboration

The New Mexico Early Childhood Tribal Advisory Coalition (NMECTAC) continued to serve as a cornerstone of government-to-government collaboration throughout Fiscal Year 2026. Established in 2022, NMECTAC provides a structured forum for Tribal early childhood leaders, educators, program administrators, community partners, and ECECD staff to strengthen relationships, share promising practices, identify emerging challenges, and develop recommendations that inform the department's work with the Nations, Pueblos, and Tribes of New Mexico.

Guided by the Office of the Assistant Secretary for Native American Early Education and Care (OAS), NMECTAC convened monthly through a combination of virtual and community-hosted in-person meetings. This hybrid model strengthened statewide participation while allowing coalition members to experience the unique strengths, cultures, and early childhood systems of host Tribal communities firsthand. Each meeting provided opportunities for relationship-building, professional development, policy discussion, collaborative problem-solving, and peer learning among Tribal early childhood professionals.

Unlike a traditional advisory committee, NMECTAC emphasizes reciprocal learning and community engagement. Meetings are intentionally hosted within Tribal communities whenever possible, allowing participants to learn directly from local early childhood programs, language revitalization efforts, innovative family engagement strategies, and culturally grounded educational practices.

Informing Statewide Policy

NMECTAC members identified recurring themes affecting Tribal early childhood systems, including workforce shortages, facilities, family engagement, language revitalization, funding, under-enrollment, food sovereignty, and access to specialized services. NMECTAC translated these discussions into practical recommendations intended to inform ECECD policy, technical assistance, and future investments.

Looking Ahead

In Fiscal Year 2027, NMECTAC will advance Tribal-led policy recommendations, support Indigenous data governance, and contribute to the planning of the Sacred Roots, Sovereign Futures Convening.

Tribal Early Childhood Capital Investments

Creating safe, culturally responsive, and sustainable learning environments is essential to supporting the healthy development of Native children and strengthening Tribal early childhood systems. Throughout Fiscal Year 2026, the Early Childhood Education and Care Department (ECECD) continued partnering with the Nations, Pueblos, and Tribes of New Mexico to advance capital investments that address facility needs identified through Tribal priorities and previous facility assessments.

Building upon comprehensive early childhood facility needs assessments conducted from 2021 - 2022, ECECD continued working collaboratively with Tribal governments to support planning, design, renovation, and construction of early childhood facilities through New Mexico's Infrastructure Capital Improvement Plan (ICIP) process. These investments are intended to improve access to high-quality learning environments while strengthening Tribal capacity to deliver culturally grounded early childhood education and care services for generations to come.

In Fiscal Year 2026, ECECD partnered with nine Tribal communities to advance planning and implementation of Tribal early childhood capital projects.

The following Tribal communities continued planning and implementation of capital investment projects during FY26:

- Pueblo of Acoma
- Pueblo de Cochiti – Keres Children's Learning Center
- Jicarilla Apache Nation
- Kewa Pueblo (Santo Domingo)
- Pueblo of Laguna
- Ohkay Owingeh Pueblo
- Pueblo of San Ildefonso
- Santa Clara Pueblo
- Pueblo of Tesuque

A significant milestone was celebrated during FY26 at the Pueblo de Cochiti, where the Keres Children's Learning Center successfully completed the expenditure of its capital funding and officially broke ground on its new early childhood facility on March 31, 2026. This milestone represents years of collaborative planning and reflects the Pueblo's continued investment in creating a permanent, culturally grounded learning environment for future generations of Keres children and families.

These capital investments represent more than facility improvements—they reflect a long-term commitment to strengthening Tribal early childhood infrastructure, supporting educational sovereignty, and ensuring that Native children have access to learning environments that honor their languages, cultures, and communities. ECECD remains committed to working alongside the Nations, Pueblos, and Tribes of New Mexico to identify infrastructure priorities and expand opportunities for future capital investments that strengthen early childhood systems across Tribal communities.

FY26 Tribal Outcome Highlights:

A Partnership Rooted in Language and Sovereignty

The Pueblo of Jemez and ECECD's shared commitment to Towa Language Revitalization

For generations, the Pueblo of Jemez has worked to protect and strengthen the Towa language, recognizing that language is inseparable from culture, identity, ceremony, and community well-being. Following community concern about declining numbers of fluent speakers, Tribal leadership committed to building a comprehensive language immersion pathway beginning in early childhood and extending through elementary education.

Through New Mexico's Preschool Development Grant Birth through Five (PDG B-5), the Early Childhood Education and Care Department (ECECD) partnered with the Pueblo of Jemez to advance Tribal language immersion. The partnership supported research, educator preparation, community engagement, and knowledge-sharing with other NPTs.

| Partnership Highlights

Strengthening Language Immersion

- Expanded oral-language instructional strategies designed specifically for an unwritten Indigenous language.
- Continued full language immersion from child care through the K-6 Hemish Language Immersion Pilot School.
- Increased opportunities for children and families to learn and use Towa in everyday life.

Sharing Knowledge Across Tribal Communities

- Hosted visits from Tribal leaders, educators, state agencies, higher education partners, and national Indigenous language programs.
- Participated in research exchanges and learning delegations in Hawai'i and Aotearoa (New Zealand).
- Supported other Nations, Pueblos, and Tribes interested in developing their own sovereign language immersion systems.

Building Indigenous Educator Pathways

- Strengthened the partnership with the University of Hawai'i at Hilo to develop one of the nation's first Tribal language immersion teacher preparation models.
- Six educators completed the inaugural Master's cohort in 2026 and are helping build the next generation of Native language teachers.
- Advanced planning for the launch of the Jemez Language Immersion Teacher Licensure Program.

Collective Reflections

Interviews with Jemez educators highlighted several consistent themes:

Successes

- Strong Tribal leadership and community commitment
- A fully implemented early childhood language immersion pathway
- Development of culturally grounded curriculum and teaching resources
- Growing educator pipeline rooted in Tribal knowledge
- Recognition of Jemez as a model for Indigenous language revitalization

Challenges

- Declining numbers of fluent speakers among younger generations
- Need for greater family and community language use outside the classroom
- Ongoing recruitment and preparation of fluent Native language educators
- Sustained investment needed to maintain momentum and prevent further language loss

Looking Forward

The evaluation affirmed that language revitalization is a long-term community effort extending beyond schools. Future priorities identified by Jemez educators include:

- Expanding educator preparation and mentorship
- Strengthening intergenerational language learning
- Increasing family and community engagement
- Creating additional opportunities for Tribes to learn from one another
- Continuing government-to-government partnerships that respect Tribal sovereignty and support Tribally defined language goals

Language revitalization succeeds when Tribal sovereignty, community leadership, intergenerational learning, and sustained partnership come together.

The Pueblo of Jemez demonstrates how Indigenous communities can design, lead, and strengthen language immersion systems that honor their own cultures, priorities, and futures.

Education Support, Tribal Engagement, and Capacity Building

Multilingual Early Childhood Career Pathways:

With funding from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation, ECECD is co-creating a pathway for a multilingual certification on an Early Childhood Degree. Work groups were held to focus on coursework, sustainability, and equity. Now in its final year, the initiative supports the development of pathways within higher education to prepare more educators who are fluent in Indigenous languages. Three statewide convenings were held to engage stakeholders in shaping the direction of this work. Additionally, as of the end of FY26, ECECD has issued $1,500 stipends to a total of 356 students to support bilingual and Indigenous students who are working toward an associate degree in early childhood; 49 of these recipients were students at Tribal Colleges and Universities.

Bilingual Certification Incentive:

In FY26, four Indigenous language teachers are receiving stipends to support their continued pursuit of an associate degree in early childhood education in the form of an annual stipend for early childhood educators holding bilingual certificate. These recipients include students from ECECD's partnerships with Tribal Colleges and Universities.

ECECD Scholarship:

ECECD offers a scholarship covering books and tuition for individuals working in early childhood settings and attending school. In FY26, 165 scholarships were awarded to Native American students.

PreK and Head Start Pay Parity:

ECECD's Pay Parity Program provide pay parity to early childhood educators who work as teachers or directors in a community-based or Tribal PreK or Head Start setting. The program is designed to recognize the experience of PreK and Head Start educators and provide pay comparable to educators with the same degrees and credentials working in a public-school setting. In FY26, 61 Native American early childhood educators were issued PreK, Head Start or Infant/Toddler classroom pay parity awards.

ECECD Wage Supplement Program:

The Wage Supplement Program provides education-based supplemental wages to early childhood educators who work with children from birth to age five as teachers, teacher's assistants, or licensed family child care providers. The program is education-based and includes ten incremental levels; the more education one attains, the more supplement one can receive. In FY26, 27 Wage Supplement Incentives were issued to Native American individuals for Supplemental Wages, which is 10% of all FY26 wage supplement recipients.

STCA Training and Certification

ECECD values diversity, equity, and inclusion. Pursuant to the State-Tribal Collaboration Act, 77 ECECD staff members have completed the State Tribal Collaboration Act Cultural Competency Training in FY26. Overall, 96 supervisors and 289 employees have completed this training since 2021. Currently the agency sits just below 90 percent completion rate. This training is provided by the State Personnel Office with assistance from the Indian Affairs Department. The training supports:

- The promotion of effective communication and collaboration between state agencies and Nations, Pueblos, and Tribes;
- The development of positive state-Tribal government-to-government relations; and
- Cultural competency in providing effective services to American Indians or Alaska Natives. ECECD has prioritized the practice of including a land acknowledgement before meetings and formal presentations to honor, recognize, and respect Indigenous Peoples as traditional stewards of this land

Method ECECD Staff are Notified of STCA

Since July 1, 2020, the Cabinet Secretary has established meaningful ways of communication with staff. This includes quarterly all-staff hybrid meetings. These all-staff meetings provide opportunity to inform staff about Tribal collaboration in pursuant of STCA and investments made to support Tribal priorities. As we enter FY27 ECECD will continue to improve on methods to inform ECECD staff on STCA and will work with the New Mexico Indian Affairs Department to ensure the agency is in compliance with training to better serve the Tribes of New Mexico.

Child Care

Child care services ensure equal access to high-quality, healthy, safe, and supportive child care environments, providing services to children aged 6 weeks to 13 years of age, or up to 18 years if special supervision is required. Families can apply for the Child Care Assistance Program online through the “Am I Eligible” survey and search for a child care provider in their area through the New Mexico Child Care Finder online tool.

Families FIRST

Families FIRST (Families and Infants Receive Services and Training) is helping build strong families through medical, social, and educational support from registered nurses and resource referrals to promote healthy infants and children in New Mexico. Families First has combined with Home Visiting to form The Family Foundations Bureau. Families FIRST providers work on the following key areas:

- Care coordination services to Medicaid-eligible pregnant individuals
- Conduct ongoing assessments to address holistic needs
- Coordinate resources with family and community
- Educate clients and their families on topics related to their pregnancy and postpartum experience as well as newborn and pediatric topics

See American Indian/Alaska Native (AI/AN) Children Served by Families First, FY25 Table on page 19

Family Nutrition Bureau

Family Nutrition Bureau (FNB) administers two USDA Child Nutrition Programs which provide federal funds to participating institutions to initiate and maintain non-profit food service programs for eligible children and adults. Two programs under FNB include the Child and Adult Care Food Program (CACFP) open to all ages and the Summer Food Service Program (SFSP), which serves children aged 1 to 18. Summer Meal sites can be found at: summerfoodnm.org

See Child and Adult Care Food Program ECECN - FNB Table on page 17

FIT Program

The Family Infant Toddler (FIT) Program promotes children growing and developing at their own pace. However, sometimes children have special developmental needs or health concerns that may put them at risk for, or cause, a developmental delay. Early Intervention promotes child development and supports families whose child has, or is at risk for, a developmental delay or disability.

See Total Children Served by County 7-1-2025 to 6-30-2026 Table on page 20

NM PreK

New Mexico PreK (NM PreK) services are offered in community and school-based settings. NM PreK offers high-quality early education focused on school readiness. NM PreK supports linguistically and culturally appropriate curriculum and provides developmentally appropriate activities for New Mexico children. ECECD welcomed two new Tribal programs as NM PreK providers. The addition of Pueblo of Isleta and Pueblo of San Felipe expanded access for a total of 509 children to high-quality NM PreK services. Collaborative partnerships with Tribal NM PreK programs allow for greater educational sovereignty in the operation of New Mexico PreK classrooms within the context of Tribal education systems. This added flexibility allows individual Nation, Pueblos, and Tribes to tailor the PreK curriculum and standards to the unique needs of their communities. Most of these new Tribal PreK classrooms will be embedded within existing Tribal Head Start programs.

See Tribal Enrollment for New Mexico PreK, FY26 Table on page 18

Head Start Collaboration Office

The New Mexico Head Start State Collaboration Office (HSSCO) operates as part of a larger national system of state collaboration offices funded by the federal Office of Head Start. The federal government created the system of state Head Start Collaboration Offices to facilitate partnerships between Head Start programs and other state and Tribal early childhood education, child care, and family support services. These offices are particularly important for state administration because Head Start funding is provided from the federal government directly to local Head Start programs and agencies.

Head Start (HS) and Early Head Start (EHS) are a critical part of the Prenatal-to-Five (PN5) early childhood system; working to give vulnerable children an opportunity to succeed in school and life. These federally funded programs throughout the country and in New Mexico make an impact on communities by providing comprehensive educational, emotional, social, health, nutritional, and psychological services that support thriving children and their families.
